COE'S DYSPEPSIA CAIRE!

The symptoms of Catarria, as they generally appear, are at first very slight. Persons find they have a cold, that they have frequent attacks, and are more remeitive to the change of beaper-stare. In this condition, the mose may be dry, or a slight discharge, thin and aerid, site-wards becoming taken and adhesive. As the disease becomes chronic the discharges are increased in quantity and changed in quality; they are now thick and heavy and are hawhed or coughed off. The secretions are ofteneve, causing a bad breath, the voice is thick and masal; the eyes are weak; the sense of the mest be inseemed or destroyed; destines frequently takes place. Another common and important symptom of Catarria is, that the person is oblighed to clear his threat in the morning of a thick or ilmy mucus, which has fallen down from the haad during the night. When this takes place the person may be sure that his disease is on its way to the imags, and should lose no time in arresting it. The above are but fee of the many Chiarri symptoms. DISEMBLE
